

Argonne communication products honored

Ten Argonne communication products have been recognized for outstanding quality by the Society for Technical Communication (STC), receiving major awards in the society's 1997-98 Chicago-area art competition.

Two of the ten award-winning products — a booklet and photograph — also garnered awards in STC's international competition.

The booklet "Advances Toward Power Sector Applications," was cited for distinguished promotional materials design at the international level. Renee Nault, Jorge Norrick, and Carol Renaud (all IPD), developed it for Alan Wolsky (ES) on behalf of the International Energy Agency. The booklet, which informs industry decision makers about high-temperature superconductivity advances applicable to electric utilities, also won an award of excellence in the Chicago-area competition.

"Heat Treating Magnesium Oxide Samples," a photo taken by George Joch (IPD), was cited for achievement at the international level, following an excellence award in Chicago. Joch, a frequent contributor to Argonne News, also won Chicago-area awards for three other photographs.

Three products designed by Mary Ann Forsys (IPD) were recognized in the Chicago STC art competition: a bioslurry brochure, which included contributions from Karen Haugen (IPD) and John Manning (ER); a structural biology exhibit; and the Argonne Partners in Innovation web site (www.ipd.anl.gov/partners/) which included contributions by

It shows Richard McDaniels (ET) preparing a batch of Ceramicrete, a new material developed to contain radioactive and hazardous wastes.

Renee Nault and Cheryl Drugan (both IPD).

Two items designed by Tami Sharley (IPD) were recognized in Chicago: a FutureCar poster developed with Robert Larsen (ES) and a booklet, "Chicago Partners in the American Dream," developed with James Cavallo of the Decision and Information Sciences Division.

"Argonne's track record of STC awards over the past 20 years tells us that the lab's products compare very favorably to those of industry and nonprofit organizations," said Kathy Macal, IPD director.

The award-winning information products will be on display beginning on April 27 in Argonne-East's Building 213 Cafeteria.

This year's winning entries will also be on display May 17-20 at the STC international conference in Anaheim, Cal.

The STC is a 20,000-member professional association dedicated to advancing the arts and sciences of technical communication.

ANL-W team to take part in 'Relay for Life'

Argonne-West's Women in Science and Technology group has put together a team to walk in the "Relay for Life," an American Cancer Society event.

The relay will be held July 31 through Aug. 1. On July 31, there will be a candlelight ceremony to honor individuals who have struggled with cancer.

WIST is looking for sponsors to cover the entry fee of $110. The entrance fee will cover 10 luminaries — candles inside paper bags arrayed around the field where the event will take place — dedicated to honor a cancer survivor or in memory of someone who has passed away from cancer and a $10 supply fee for the walker.

A person or a group of people may donate more than the $110. For every $10 over the $110, another luminary will be made.

Team members are Linda Hansen (ED), Hope Foresmann (TD), Dawn Davidson (OD), Nancy Stewart (OD), Dawn Rees (ED), Jean Benedict (ED), Mo Finnerty (ED), Rebecca Edwards (ED), Jennifer Turnage (ED) and Shelly Havlovick (RPS).

The money raised by the event will be used locally to aid with patient services, prevention and detection, general management and fund raising.

WIST will donate team prizes won at the relay to the 1998 United Way Raffle.

'Earth Day forum' to highlight pollution prevention

Argonne and DOE employees are invited to attend Argonne's Earth Day Forum at Argonne-East's Building 213 Cafeteria lobby on Friday, April 24, from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

The Waste Minimization and Pollution Prevention (WM&PP) Advisory Committee, DOE, and EMO are sponsoring the event, which will showcase waste minimization and pollution prevention exhibits.

Several Argonne partners will showcase their work in waste mini-mization, land management, oil and solvent recycling, office products made from recycled products, and refurbished toner cartridges. The WM&PP Advisory Committee will have a display highlighting Argonne's work in pollution prevention.

Employees who stop by the forum can pick up a WM&PP highlighter pen and participate in a contest to win prizes.

The forum will also kick off a new recycling program at the Building 213 Cafeteria. Marriott Services has volunteered to recycle glass, plastic, and aluminum to reduce the disposal of solid waste at the laboratory.

WM&PP Spirit Awards will be presented to employees for their pollution prevention efforts. The award program was established in February 1998 to provide recognition for individuals or small groups

Argonne-West's Tim Miller to coach youth team for national contest at Baseball Hall of Fame

Argonne-West's Tim Miller (ED) has been chosen to coach an all-Idaho baseball team for the first-ever "Timecards Capital Games Invitational Tournament" to be played this summer in Cooperstown, N.Y.

Miller, an environmental engineer, will manage 13 players, all 12 and under, at the 50-team competition at the Baseball Hall of Fame, June 27-July 2, 1998.

"It will give the kids the opportunity not only to play," Miller said, "but also to see the history of baseball in Cooperstown."

The tournament is sponsored by Timecards, Inc., a prepaid telephone-card firm, and several other companies. Timecards put out a national call for coaches; Miller was urged to apply by a youth baseball organization in Utah.

Miller's application was probably a shoe-in, based on his long experience with the national pastime. He first stepped up to the plate at age eight, and has played every level from Western Boys to American Legion Baseball in Idaho Falls. He lettered for two years at Skyline High School, and followed that up with two-year stints at Treasure Valley Community College in Ontario, Ore. and Northwest Nazarene College in Nampa, as a first baseman.

He has played fast pitch for the past 15 years in Idaho Falls and has been a coach for the last five years in hockey, soccer and youth baseball (6-12 years).

"I grew up in Idaho Falls and played baseball and other sports in the area. But baseball is my first love," Miller said.

Once selected to coach a tournament team, Miller called on area coaches to submit players. Tryouts were held last October, and the number of players cut from 40 to 13.

The players are mostly from southern Idaho, and have been getting together a few times a week, practicing indoors at Idaho Falls High School since January. "The kids are definitely antsy to get outside," Miller said. In addition to their regular league play each week, the team will be playing double-headers in a Utah league on Saturdays.

The strengths of Team Idaho, nicknamed the "Russets," are its athleticism and strong pitching staff. Miller won't get a good look at their batting skills until the weather improves sufficiently for outdoor practice.

"We've got some kids with very good arms," Miller said. "We've got one kid who throws in the mid- to upper 70s. He may hit 80 mph by the end of the summer."

Fund raising activities to help the team travel to Cooperstown will include selling pre-paid phone cards to help pay for their travel. These cards can be purchased from Miller by calling ext. 3-7741. A car wash is planned at the Idaho Falls Wal-Mart in May.

Talk to cover coping with severe stress

Michael Atella, clinical psychologist with Argonne-East's Medical Department, will present a seminar on critical incident stress management on Tuesday, April 21, at 9:30 a.m. in the Building 203 Auditorium.

Critical incident stress is a normal reaction to sudden and unexpected traumatic events beyond the range of usual experience, such as the accidental death of a co-worker on the job. Most people exposed to a critical incident will experience the phenomenon. Left unmanaged, it may develop into deep, long-term psychological distress known as post-traumatic stress disorder.

Atella will describe the approach for managing this type of stress and the resources available to Argonne employees to help them recover. The seminar is presented by the Environment, Safety and Health Division's Emergency Management Section.

Awards to note efforts to stop pollution, waste

Applications are now being accepted for the 12th annual Governor's Pollution Prevention Awards, which honor organizations for outstanding pollution prevention efforts.

Pollution prevention projects must have been completed or in progress by Dec. 31, 1997. For the "continuous improvement" category, projects must demonstrate a sustained pollution prevention program that spans a minimum of five years up to Dec. 31, 1997.

Applications will be judged on activities such as reduction of the volume or toxicity of waste; recovery of reusable materials or energy; changes that reduce waste generation; technology development that reduces waste production, and outreach and educational programs.

For an entry package, contact Mary Kmak (ITD); call ext. 2-9124, send faxes to ext. 2-5230 or send e-mail to maryk@anl.gov. Completed entries must be submitted to Kmak by Friday, May 8. ITD will submit entries to the state.

ANL-W helps 200 young women find careers

More than 200 young women learned about career opportunities from area professionals at the 12th Young Women's Conference (YWC) sponsored in part by Argonne-West and chaired by Linda Hansen (ED).

Held in Idaho Falls March 14, the conference was attended by young women in seventh through 12th grades from throughout southern Idaho. The theme for this year's conference was "Oh, The Places You'll Go."

Young women had the choice of attending three hands-on workshops in traditional and non-traditional areas. Mary Adamic (ED) conducted the chemistry workshop. Twenty-three other workshops covered careers in structural engineering, veterinary medicine, radiology, pharmacy, archaeology, optometry, architecture, robotics, legal and military careers.

Susan Mousseau (ED) gave a special presentation, "The Things You'll Do," featuring the diverse expertise at Argonne-West.

In addition to the conference workshops, displays were provided by the Idaho Sections of the American Nuclear Society, American Chemical Society and Society of Women Engineers. Keener Earle, Todd Allen and Mary Adamic (all ED) were among the Argonne-West employees who hosted displays.

The Women in Science and Technology (WIST) of Argonne-West provided an interactive display that challenged the young women's statistical knowledge about women in the work force and fields of study.

Shelly Havlovick (RPS), Markie Burns (OD), Deborah Tate, Robin Stewart, Ray Charles and Jim Blaylock (all ED) took part in creating a PC-based program which allowed the girls to hear questions on statistics and respond to multiple-choice questions.

Along with the others, Hope Forsmann (TD), Shelly Li (TD) and Nancy Stewart (OD) were on hand to answer questions and provide encouragement.

Argonne history awarded Henry Adams Prize

Kansas State University History Professor Jack Holl has won the 1997 Henry Adams Prize from the Society for History in the Federal Government for his book "Argonne National Laboratory, 1946-96."

The annual award recognizes the best narrative history contributing to a better understanding of the federal government. He received the award on March 20 at a ceremony at the National Archives in Washington, D.C.

With the help of an Argonne grant, Holl documented the first history of the laboratory. The book describes Argonne's emergence out of the Manhattan Project and the University of Chicago "Met Lab" to the present. The 644-page, hard-cover book contains a forward by Argonne Director Emeritus Alan Schriesheim.

The Argonne history book (ISBN 0-252-02341-2) has sold about 2,500 copies and may still be purchased by phoning the University of Illinois Press at (800) 545-4703. Payment can be made by MasterCard or Visa. The price is $29.95 each, plus mailing costs of $3 for the first copy and 50 cents for each additional copy.

Employees who prefer to pay by check can mail orders to the University of Illinois Press, P.O. Box 4856 Hampden Station, Baltimore, MD 21211. Those who identify themselves as Argonne employees will receive a 20 percent discount.

Holl, former chief historian for the Department of Energy, also received the Henry Adams Prize for his last book, "Atoms for Peace and War, 1953-1961, Eisenhower and the Atomic Energy Commission."

Lab to mark secretaries' contributions

Argonne-East will host its 14th annual Secretaries Day celebration on Wednesday, April 22, in Argonne-East's APS Conference Center, Building 402.

A continental breakfast will be served at 8 a.m. in the Gallery followed by a program at 8:45 a.m. in the Auditorium. Opening remarks will be made by laboratory director Dean Eastman. Carol Ann Quinn, director of Human Resources will speak on "Playing to Your Strengths."

All Argonne secretaries and clerical employees are invited to attend.

that show exceptional effort to incorporate WM&PP philosophies into their work at Argonne.

The DuPage County Forest Preserve District will showcase its Parent-A-Tree Program, designed to revitalize the oak tree population in its forest preserves.

The forest preserve district will sell tree seedlings (red or burr oak) to Argonne employees for $5. Participants receive a kit containing two seedlings to plant and care for on their own property. One is returned to a nearby forest preserve within five years, and the participant keeps the other seedling.

Argonne employees will also have an opportunity to sign up for a Cleanup Walk this summer. The annual event allows volunteers to clean up an area near the Argonne site to improve the ecosystem. For more information, call Keith Trychta at ext. 2-1476.
